

JUNIOR LEGION CORPS TO ENTER STATE PARADE

At a regular meeting of the Albert J. Lentz post No. 202 of the American Legion, Monday evening, plans were completed for attendance at the annual state convention of the Legion at Williamsport this week of the post's delegates and the drum and bugle corps of the Sons of the American Legion, Squadron No. 202.

The Lentz post's delegates, Frank J. Slonaker, Elmer J. Dillman and Commander Horace E. Smiley, will go to the convention city on Wednesday. Edgar A. Moser, one of three alternate delegates, also will attend. The other alternates are Harry Pittenturf and Dorsey Rebert. A large delegation from the local post is expected to be in Williamsport on Saturday, parade day and the last day of the annual conclave.

Although no prizes are offered for competition by mixed drum corps, 44 members of the Sons of Legion Squadron drum and bugle corps will go to Williamsport on Saturday morning to participate in what is expected to be the largest state Legion convention parade ever staged in Pennsylvania.

Joyce, Now 1½, Snatched From 'Death's Door' When 1-Day Old by Use of 'Artificial Larynx,' Enjoys Almost Normal Life; Can Say 'Mama'

JOYCE Sheaffer, who is 541 days old, deserves the title of "hospital baby" in the strictest meaning of the words when one realizes that she has spent all but one of those days since her birth in two hospitals.

Those 540 days under the supervision of doctors and nurses have shown a steady improvement in the condition of Joyce over the day, she was placed in their care — about 24 hours after her birth — when she was near death due to an obstruction in her windpipe that prevented her from breathing.

But since that day in February, 1938, when Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sheaffer, Biglerville R. D., was brought to the Warner hospital — gasping for breath — she has responded to the most advanced applications of medical science and physicians believe that her condition will improve to the extent that she will be partially, if not completely, cured.

JOYCE probably owes her life to the quick action of surgeons at the Warner hospital who inserted a tube in her throat when she was a day old to permit her to breathe. Since that time she has been a patient at the University of Pennsylvania hospital under the care of Dr. Gabriel Tucker, a bronchoscopic clinic specialist. She returned to the Warner hospital late in July and will remain there for at least six months before returning to Philadelphia for further treatment and examinations.

A normal child in every respect except for her breathing.

Joyce puts in a busy day in the Warner hospital. She usually spends the mornings in bed, but during the afternoons she may be found walking up and down the corridors with nurses or enjoying the sunshine on the hospital grounds. Among her companions are several Warner patients who daily spend much time in the out-of-doors.

Joyce's artificial larynx — which is inserted into her windpipe through a hole in her neck — does the breathing for her that she cannot do herself. The motion of the muscles of her body cause the air to be drawn into the two-inch curved tube that is inserted into her windpipe. In this way she receives the air that is not permitted to pass through the windpipe — or trachea — through the normal process.

At the time of her birth, the windpipe was nearly closed tight by the obstruction. However, since she has received treatment at the Warner hospital and the Philadelphia clinic, Joyce is able to take a small amount of air into her body through her nose and mouth. This was made possible through the use of dilators that were inserted in her windpipe in an effort to force a larger hole in the obstruction.

It is the continuation of these treatments, doctors believe, that will permit Joyce to approach natural breathing as she grows older. As the windpipe becomes larger with the growth of Joyce, the physicians hope to continue the use of the dilators to cause a larger opening in the obstruction. They are optimistic now that sometime Joyce may be able to breathe without the tube. But only time will tell whether their treatments will be successful.

As evidence of the improvement in Joyce's condition, nurses have pointed out that she is now able to say "Mama." This is the first word she has said. This feat is remarkable for Joyce because the vocal cords are located at the top of the trachea and are regulated by the air that passes (Continued on Page Two)

HISTORICAL GROUP TO HOLD PUBLIC MEETING

Invitations have been mailed to 100 persons interested in the re-organization of the Adams County Historical society announcing a public meeting to be held next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the county court house here.

The meeting is being held preliminary to opening negotiations for the incorporation of the society after 100 members have been enrolled. Other future plans for the society will be discussed at the meeting.

In an address Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, head of the department of history at Gettysburg college, will point out the wealth of material in this county's past deserving the attention of a historical organization.

The other speakers on Monday evening will be Henry J. Young, director of the York county Historical society.

Robert H. Fidler, instructor in history at Gettysburg high school, recently was elected president of the society.

Relief Labor May Be Used to Fight Mosquitoes Here

Mosquito eradication and general clean up work in the borough were approved by the borough council Monday evening as a project for local participation in the "work-to-eat" program of the state Department of Public Assistance.

Offered the services of "about 10 men" by the county assistance board, councilmen directed Secretary Wilmer Drach to advise Col. J. L. Barton, executive director of public assistance in Adams county, that the borough is ready for the men to go to work at once.

It was explained that the employable relievers to be given work here will not replace present employees, but will be assigned to work for which there are no borough funds available. The men will work for their weekly relief checks.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Evelyn Shoop, Carlisle street, underwent an operation on Saturday at the Keystone hospital, Harrisburg. Her condition is said to be satisfactory.

BOROUGH COSTS KEPT WITHIN BUDGET FIGURES

Members of the borough council at their regular August meeting heard what they described as one of the most satisfactory treasurer's reports in many months.

Within a few days, Treasurer Fred G. Pfeiffer said, the borough's outstanding temporary loans will be reduced to $10,000, the lowest point reached in a number of years. When money now on hand in the general and special funds is used to cut the debt to that point, this council will have paid off more than $25,000 in temporary loans since January 1, the treasurer's report showed.

Expenses so far this year are running well behind budgeted estimates, figures in Mr. Pfeiffer's report revealed. Expenditures for the first seven months, exclusive of the sums used to retire notes, totaled $17,951, which is considerably less than half the amount set aside for the borough's use in the current 12-month period.

Of the $17,500 already used to pay off short term loans, $16,000 was paid off during last month from tax receipts, council was told.

The typed monthly report of Treasurer Pfeiffer, a copy of which was distributed to each councilman, showed a balance of $3,754 in the general fund and $6,206 in the special fund as of Monday. Those sums will be used promptly in retiring notes and in meeting current expenses Mr. Pfeiffer said.

Bills approved for payment Monday evening amounted to more than $1,700. The estimated payroll for August is about $1,000. Records of other years show that about $1,400 may be expected in taxes this month.

Temporary loans outstanding up to today in the two local banks were exactly divided between the two institutions, the treasurer said. Each bank had loans of $9,000 to one fund or the other.

Basing their statements on figures presented Monday evening, councilmen foresaw a substantial reduction in the town's debt during the current year.

Lightning Bolt Causes 3 Horses To Become Deaf

WHILE milking cows on their farm at Mt. Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Small had a narrow escape from death or serious injury one day last week when a freak lightning bolt struck their barn and after a series of capers finally caused three horses to become deaf.

The bolt struck the lightning rod on the roof of the Small barn and headed for the ground. However, there was a piece of pipe leaning against the wire that was to guide the charge to the earth and when the bolt came into contact with the pipe it leaped to some chains that were nearby in the barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Small, who were busy milking cows in the barn at the time, were stunned by the bolt and at the same time three horses owned by the couple were affected. A Littlestown veterinarian was called and discovered that the animals had become deaf.

PROGRAM FOR BAND CONCERT

The Blue and Gray band of Gettysburg will offer its fifth concert of the summer this evening in center square. The program, which will begin at 8 o'clock, includes the following:

"March of Time," Alexander; overture, "Charlemagne," Richards; trombone solo, "Perfect Day," played by George Hamme; current popular selections; "Concert in the Park," vocal solo by Wendell Patton; overture, "Eagle's Nest," Ignman; and "Star Spangled Banner."

Harry C. Stenger, of Hanover, is director of the band.

APPLY FOR LICENSE

A marriage license application was filed this morning at the office of the clerk of the courts by Charles Edward Kerins, Pottsville, Pa., and Kathryn Connelly, Coraopolis, Pa.

Baby Born in Manila With Heart Outside of Her Body

Manila, Aug. 8 (AP)—A seven-pound baby girl, born with her heart completely outside her body but apparently normal otherwise, alternately took nourishment and peacefully slept today while puzzled doctors wondered what to do.

A thin stemless cocktail glass protected the tiny exposed heart which rested on the infant's chest over a small opening. Through this opening, the aorta, a large artery, connects the heart with the thoracic cavity, where the heart normally is found. The glass helps maintain body heat for the heart and guards against infection.

Physicians disagreed whether the child would live and debated feasibility of an operation to place the heart in its normal position inside the chest. They said there was only one other such case in recorded medical history.

The child was born Monday to a 24-year-old mother in a little maternity hospital in the heart of the tondo slum district. She was baptized by a priest and named Maria Corazon (Mary Heart).

Kimble Named Councilman; Parking Changes Proposed; Tax Exonerations Refused

Only after assurance was given that no immediate attempt was planned to "railroad" parking meters through council were objections removed to the appointment of Theodore V. Kimble, Carlisle street, second ward, as a member of council. He was permitted to take his place Monday evening about the big table in the engine house council chambers as the successor to the late William F. Weaver, as the August council session convened.

As soon as Mr. Kimble's admission had been moved by Councilman D. D. Kendlehart of the second ward and seconded by Councilman Frank J. Slonaker of the third ward, H. M. Oyer, other representative from the third ward, took the floor to inquire about the purpose of Mr. Kimble's nomination.

Stating he had no objections to Mr. Kimble personally, Councilman Oyer declared if other councilmen were "trying to ram something through council" with the help of the new member, he would oppose the appointment.

Not Ready to Support Meters
President Hoffman brought momentary calm to the turbulent opening minutes of the meeting by pointing out that he was not yet ready to support meters here because their backers could not yet claim five other councilmen on their side. The president referred Mr. Oyer to his (Hoffman's) declaration of several months ago that he would not lend support to the meters until a majority of councilmen agreed that meters should be placed here.

Mr. Oyer then explained his position by saying he felt the Chamber of Commerce and the tax-paying businessmen of the town should come before council and demand meters before council should act. That drew a quick retort from Councilman Slonaker and Councilman Clyde D. Berger joined in the heated exchange of opinions on the parking meter matter here.

On a voice vote Mr. Kimble was approved unanimously and a few minutes later took his place at the council table after taking his oath of office from Burgess C. A. Helges.

Parking Changes Proposed

Mr. Kimble, who is a democratic candidate for borough council from the second ward, was appointed by President Hoffman to serve as chairman of the market committee and as a member of the safety and health committees. All of those posts had been filled by Mr. Weaver.

Several changes in the present borough parking regulations were proposed by Councilman Berger and later held over for study for a month with the intention of acting upon them in September.

The principal changes asked by the safety committee chairman are: Establishment of one-hour parking on South Washington street from Chambersburg street to High street; 1-hour parking on York street from Liberty street to Fourth street and the removal of the ban on parking along the east side of the first block of South Washington street.

BREAKS LEG IN FALL OFF ENGINE MONDAY EVENING

Stanton R. Kapp, 528 York street, 61-year-old Reading company machinist, suffered severe fractures of both bones in his left leg above the ankle in a fall Monday evening about 6:30 o'clock after a wrench slipped while he worked on a locomotive in the Reading yards.

Mr. Kapp, who was working alone, had been cleaning out the front end of the locomotive and was engaged in tightening bolts which hold the big end plate in place. His wrench slipped and he lost his balance.

As he fell from his perch about five or six feet above the ground his left ankle caught in a rod at the top of the cowcatcher and the bones snapped. The engineer rolled over, freed his leg and came to rest on the ground. He was found a few minutes later by Engineer Luther Brubaker as the latter put his engine away for the night.

The Adams county ambulance was called and Mr. Kapp was rushed to the Warner hospital where he was admitted as a patient.

Legion Drum Corps to Play at Two Picnics

The drum and bugle corps of the Sons of the Legion, Squadron No. 202, of Gettysburg, has accepted two invitations for appearances this month after its return from the state Legion convention this week.

On Saturday, August 19, the corps will play at a picnic being held at Emmitsburg by St. Joseph's church and on the following Saturday it will appear at the annual Mt. Joy community picnic.

J. LOWRY HILL SERIOUSLY HURT

Two persons were injured, one of them seriously, in a crash of two automobiles Monday morning on the Lincoln highway, 100 yards east of the railroad crossing in Thomasville.

J. Lowry Hill, Gettysburg R. 2, who suffered cuts, abrasions, a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries, was admitted to the York West Side sanitarium.

Hill, who is familiarly known in Gettysburg as "Larry," resides along the Fairfield road. He is 71 years of age. His condition was given as serious by attendants at the sanitarium this morning.

Mrs. Evelyn Green, 39 years old, of Staithorn R. D., Westmoreland county, had her left eye discolored when her head struck the windshield of the family car.

A coupe operated by Mrs. Green's husband, Walter Green, 33 years old, was traveling westward on the highway. Their two children, Walter, 10, and Joseph, seven, also were passengers in the car. A car operated by Dwight E. Snyder, Gettysburg R. 2, in which Hill was a passenger, was traveling in an eastward direction. The cars crashed when Snyder attempted to make a left-hand turn on the highway.

Damage to the Green automobile amounted to $25 and that of the Snyder car, $20. Private M. J. Wargo, of the York substation of the Pennsylvania motor police, conducted an investigation.

2 COUNTY BOYS ENLIST IN ARMY

Robert Samuel Kramer, son of Mrs. Celeste Kramer, of York Springs, and Thomas James Pryor, son of Mrs. Sarah Shannon, of near Gettysburg, enlisted together recently at the United States recruiting office in Hagerstown, Maryland. They chose the coast artillery service and will be stationed at Manila, Philippine Islands.

Stationed at present at Fort Slocum, New York, the county enlists will remain there until September 12 when they will sail on the Army transport, "U. S. Grant," for Manila. Enroute to their station they will visit in Puerto Rico, Pampanga, the Dalboa cities, San Francisco, Hawaiian Islands and the island of Guam.

At the end of two years of service Kramer and Pryor will return to the United States either to finish their third year of service at an army post in this country or to be honorably discharged.

Applications are now being accepted by the army recruiting office in Hagerstown, from new and ex-service men and for the enlistments in the army and the regular army reserve. Full information will be furnished if requested by mail or by calling at the recruiting office in the post office building at Hagerstown.

REGISTRATION IS UNDERWAY

About 35 countians appeared at the county commissioners' office Monday evening from 6:30 to 9:30 o'clock to register. List changes of address or change party enrollment, Chief Clerk Winfield C. Horner said.

The office will be open during the same hours this evening and Wednesday evening for the convenience of electors of Adams county who wish to register in time to vote at the September primaries. All registration before the primaries ends at noon on Saturday.

SENTENCED IN YORK

Raymond C. Plank, Gettysburg R. 3, was sentenced to the York county jail for 60 days on Monday in court in York county. Plank previously had entered a plea of guilty to the charge following his arrest near Dillsburg.

99 ON WPA JOBS TO BE DISMISSED IN THIS COUNTY

The dismissal of 99 certified workers in Adams county who have been continuously employed by the Work Projects administration for eighteen months or more is scheduled to begin today and continue daily on a balanced schedule until September 1, the deadline set by the law. It was announced from W.P.A. headquarters in Harrisburg.

The separations are being made in accordance with statutory requirements in the relief act of 1933 prohibiting continuous employment except for veterans, for more than eighteen months.

Since the review of the employment records has not been completed at this time, the number of those whose dismissals are to begin today does not represent the total number in the county whose employment will be effected by the eighteen month provision.

The dismissals are not expected to effect materially the present employment total in the county, officials say. Colonel Philip Mathews, state administrator, has authorized the replacement—as far as it is necessary and current quotas permit—of those persons who are to be dismissed with others from the lists in the county of those who have been certified and are waiting assignment.

No person discharged because of this provision in the law will be eligible for re-assignment until the expiration of thirty days from the date of discharge, and will be eligible at such time only upon re-certification by the County Assistance Board.

Colonel Mathews pointed out that re-certification after the lapse of thirty days does not entitle a person to immediate re-assignment but merely entitles him to have his name placed in the file of persons waiting re-assignment. New assignments from this file are to be made on a basis of relative need.

Bigler 4-H Club Members Plan Tour

Members of the Biglerville 4-H baby beef club have completed plans for a tour of the homes of the members of the York Springs club on Thursday afternoon. The club members will meet at the Biglerville auditorium at 2:30 o'clock and end the tour with a weiner roast at the Earl Peters home, Gardners R. 1, in the evening. Assistant County Agent Russell Mollenauer will accompany the club members.

On Friday evening the York Springs club members will meet at 7:45 o'clock at the home of Ray Reinecker for an important session at which plans will be made for taking the young beeves to the South Mountain fair grounds for display during fair week.

Mr. Mollenauer will meet with the members of the South Mountain Pig Breeding 4-H club on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Glenn Slaybaugh, Gettysburg R. D.

Biglerville Teacher Resigns Position

Cyrus G. Bucher, Biglerville, has resigned his position as head of the commercial department of the Biglerville high school in order to accept a position in the offices of the C. H. Musselman cannery company. He has been employed at the Musselman company all summer. His resignation becomes effective immediately.

Mr. Bucher has been a member of the Biglerville faculty for the past three years.

STOCK TO TEACH IN UNIVERSITY

William S. Stock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Stock, 20 East Middle street, has accepted a student-assistantship at the Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Maryland. Mr. Stock will teach a course in "The Mathematics of Finance and Statistics," substituting for Dr. G. H. Evers, who has been granted a temporary leave of absence to do special work for the bureau of economics research.

Mr. Stock will continue his studies in the political economy department of the graduate school, working toward a degree of doctor of philosophy.

He was graduated from St. Mary's college at Emmitsburg in 1937 and received his master of business administration degree from the Wharton school of finance at the University of Pennsylvania last June.

Operated Upon for Removal of Appendix

Mrs. Francis Sterner, New Oxford, was admitted to the Warner hospital Monday evening where she submitted to an operation for the removal of her appendix. Her condition was reported to be good this morning.

Patients discharged Monday afternoon included: Mrs. Cornelius Nitchman and Charlotte Nitchman, Aspers; Barbara Yoder, Biglerville; Rosemary Sanders, Emmitsburg; Paul A. Harner, Emmitsburg; Martha Raffensperger, Biglerville R. D.; and Ila Jane Kuykendall, Chambersburg street.

New Building Will Be Erected in Benner's Grove

Announcement was made today that a new building to measure 16x100 feet is being erected at Benner's grove along the Taneytown road where fire destroyed a smaller structure last Saturday morning.

The annual Mt. Joy community picnic will be held in the grove on August 16 and 17.

The new building will serve as kitchen and also will provide for a sheltered dining area.

Complaints from citizens and from the Gettysburg office of the National park service about "stream pollution" in Rock creek below the borough sewage disposal plant and about the resulting unpleasant odors came to the attention of borough council Monday evening through a communication from the state Department of Health.

Disagreeing with statements made in the letter by Louis K. Sheffer, district engineer in the Health department, Dr. E. D. Hudson, Sr., president of the Gettysburg board of health, and members of council held that the key to the situation lies in opening the creek channel, through National park lands and thereby improving the flow of water.

The borough's health and sewer committees and Solicitor E. V. Bulleit were directed to confer with the national government on the possibility of stream improvement work below the sewage plant.

State Official Visited Town
Mr. Sheffer, in his letter which was read to council by Doctor Hudson, explained observations made on a visit here on July 20 and referred frequently to "stream pollution" and the discharge of "partly treated" sewage from the borough's plant into Rock creek.

The health board president took issue with the state official on that point and declared:

"I believe we have a very efficient plant and a very efficient plant operator. I don't believe anything is being run into the creek that could prove offensive in any way."

In his letter Mr. Sheffer recommended the installation of a secondary sewage treatment or oxidation unit to the local plant. Such an addition would cost between $30,000 and $50,000 council has been told on previous occasions.

Doctor Hudson emphatically expressed his opposition to any such expenditure by the borough and asserted:

"I'll resign tonight before I'll okay anything like that."

The local health board head continued his reading of the letter, frequently interrupting himself to comment on its contents.

Historical Question
When Mr. Sheffer in his communication referred to the Gettysburg gas plant along North Stratton street as a source of contamination of the Tiber, a tributary of Rock creek, Doctor Hudson pointed out that the plant has been closed down four years.

Council was reminded that several years ago a move to have C.C.C. or other government labor used to open the Rock creek channel below town was blocked by the historical division of the National park service which held that the historical importance of the stream would be damaged by the proposed changes.

Members of the borough body agreed that downstream improvements will help the flow of water in the creek and asserted their confidence that the disposal plant is "doing a good job."

Of the $17,500 already used to pay off short term loans, $16,000 was paid off during last month from tax receipts, council was told.

The typed monthly report of Treasurer Pfeffer, a copy of which was distributed to each councilman, showed a balance of $3,754 in the general fund and $6,206 in the special fund as of Monday. Those sums will be used promptly in retiring notes and in meeting current expenses Mr. Pfeffer said.

Bills approved for payment Monday evening amounted to more than $1,700. The estimated payroll for August is about $1,000. Records of other years show that about $1,400 may be expected in taxes this month.

Temporary loans outstanding up to today in the two local banks were exactly divided between the two institutions, the treasurer said. Each bank had loans of $9,000 to one fund or the other.

Basing their statements on figures presented Monday evening, councilmen foresaw a substantial reduction in the town's debt during the current year.

Lightning Bolt Causes 3 Horses To Become Deaf

WHILE milking cows on their farm at Mt. Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Small had a narrow escape from death or serious injury one day last week when a freak lightning bolt struck their barn and after a series of capers finally caused three horses to become deaf.

The bolt struck the lightning rod on the roof of the Small barn and headed for the ground. However, there was a piece of pipe leaning against the wire that was to guide the charge to the earth and when the bolt came into contact with the pipe it leaped to some chains that were nearby in the barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Small, who were busy milking cows in the barn at the time, were stunned by the bolt and at the same time three horses owned by the couple were affected. A Littlestown veterinarian was called and discovered that the animals had become deaf.

PROGRAM FOR BAND CONCERT

The Blue and Gray band of Gettysburg will offer its fifth concert of the summer this evening in center square. The program, which will begin at 8 o'clock, includes the following:

"March of Time," Alexander; overture, "Charlemagne," Richards; trombone solo, "Perfect Day," played by George Hamme; current popular selections; "Concert in the Park," vocal solo by Wendel Patton; overture, "Eagle's Nest," Isgrman, and "Star Spangled Banner."

Harry C. Stenger, of Hanover, is director of the band.

APPLY FOR LICENSE

A marriage license application was filed this morning at the office of the clerk of the courts by Charles Edward Kerins, Farrell, Pa., and Kathryn Connelly, Coraopolis, Pa.

Baby Born in Manila With Heart Outside of Her Body

Manila, Aug. 8 (AP)—A seven-pound baby girl, born with her heart completely outside her body but apparently normal otherwise, alternately took nourishment and peacefully slept today while puzzled doctors wondered what to do.

A thin stemless cocktail glass protected the tiny exposed heart which rested on the infant's chest over a small opening. Through this opening the heart with the thoracic cavity, where the heart normally is found. The glass helps maintain body heat for the heart and guards against infection.

Physicians disagreed whether the child would live and debated feasibility of an operation to place the heart in its normal position inside the chest. They said there was only one other such case in recorded medical history.

The child was born Monday to a 24-year old mother in a little maternity hospital in the heart of the tondo slum district. She was baptized by a priest and named Maria Corazon (Mary Heart).

The most prominent medical and surgical men in the Philippines gathered about the operating table on which the baby lay, surrounded by hot water bottles and under constant care of a nurse.

Dr. Guillermo del Castillo, the attending physician, said he expected the child to live. Other prominent physicians expressed doubt.

The baby, whose heart-beat and breathing were declared normal, was not born prematurely. Feeding was accomplished with an eye-dropper, which was used because it was more convenient than a bottle. The baby sucked in the milk and licked her lips. Crying caused her exposed heart to beat faster.

Curious Filipinos by scores gathered around and superstitious folk were attracted by a story that the child's exposed heart was due to the mother's exceptional devotion to the sacred heart prior to the birth.

The mother, who was unaware of her daughter's condition, was reported doing well.

Kimple Named Councilman; Parking Changes Proposed; Tax Exonerations Refused

Only after assurance was given that no immediate attempt was planned to "railroad parking meters through council" were objections removed to the appointment of Theodore V. Kimple, Carlisle street, second ward, as a member of council. He was permitted to take his place Monday evening about the big table in the engine house council chambers as the successor to the late William F. Weaver, as the August council session convened.

As soon as Mr. Kimple's admission had been moved by Councilman D. D. Kandlehart of the second ward and seconded by Councilman Frank B. Slonaker of the third ward, H. M. Oyster, other representative from the third ward, took the floor to inquire about the purpose of Mr. Kimple's nomination.

Stating he had no objections to Mr. Kimple personally, Councilman Oyster declared if other councilmen were "trying to ram something through council" with the help of the new member, he would oppose the appointment.

Not Ready to Support Meters President Hoffman brought momentary calm to the turbulent opening minutes of the meeting by pointing out that he was not yet ready to support meters here because their backers could not yet claim five other councilmen on their side. The president referred Mr. Oyster to his (Hoffman's) declaration of several months ago that he would not lend support to the meters until a majority of councilmen agreed that meters should be placed here.

Mr. Oyster then explained his position by saying he felt the Chamber of Commerce and the tax-paying businessmen of the town should come before council and demand meters before council should act. That drew a quick retort from Councilman Slonaker and Councilman Clyde D. Berger joined in the heated exchange of opinions on the parking meter matter here.

On a voice vote Mr. Kimple was approved unanimously and a few minutes later took his place at the council table after taking his oath of office from Burgess C. A. Helges.

Parking Changes Proposed Mr. Kimple, who is a democratic candidate for borough council from the second ward, was appointed by President Hoffman to serve as chairman of the market committee and as a member of the safety and health committees. All of those posts had been filled by Mr. Weaver.

Several changes in the present borough parking regulations were proposed by Councilman Berger and later held over for study for a month with the intention of acting upon them in September.

The principal changes asked by the safety committee chairman are: Establishment of one-hour parking on South Washington street from Chambersburg street to High street; 3-hour parking on York street from Liberty street to Fourth street and the removal of the ban on parking along the east side of the first block of South Washington street.

BREAKS LEG IN FALL OFF ENGINE MONDAY EVENING

Stanton R. Kapp, 528 York street, 61-year-old Reading company machinist, suffered severe fractures of both bones in his left leg above the ankle in a fall Monday evening about 6:30 o'clock after a wrench slipped while he worked on a locomotive in the Reading yards.

Mr. Kapp, who was working alone, had been cleaning out the front end of the locomotive and was engaged in tightening bolts which hold the big end plate in place. His wrench slipped and he lost his balance.

As he fell from his perch about five or six feet above the ground his left ankle caught in a rod at the top of the cowcatcher and the bones snapped. The engineer rolled over, freed his leg and came to rest on the ground. He was found a few minutes later by Engineer Luther Brubaker as the latter put his engine away for the night.

The Adams county ambulance was called and Mr. Kapp was rushed to the Warner hospital where he was admitted as a patient.

Legion Drum Corps to Play at Two Picnics

The drum and bugle corps of the Sons of the Legion, Squadron No. 202, of Gettysburg, has accepted two invitations for appearances this month after its return from the state Legion convention this week.

On Saturday, August 19, the corps will play at a picnic being held at Emmitsburg by St. Joseph's church and on the following Saturday it will appear at the annual Mt. Joy community picnic.

J. LOWRY HILL SERIOUSLY HURT

Two persons were injured, one of them seriously, in a crash of two automobiles Monday morning on the Lincoln highway, 100 yards east of the railroad crossing in Thomasville.

J. Lowry Hill, Gettysburg R. 2, who suffered cuts, abrasions, a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries, was admitted to the York West Side sanitarium.

Hill, who is familiarly known in Gettysburg as "Larry," resides along the Fairfield road. He is 71 years of age. His condition was given as serious by attendants at the sanitarium this morning.

Mrs. Evelyn Green, 30 years old, of Stahltown R. D. Westmoreland county, had her left eye discolored when her head struck the windshield of the family car.

A coupe operated by Mrs. Green's husband, Walter Green, 33 years old, was traveling westwardly on the highway. Their two children, Walter, 10, and Joseph, seven, also were passengers in the car. A car operated by Dwight E. Snyder, Gettysburg R. 2, in which Hill was a passenger, was traveling in an eastwardly direction. The cars crashed when Snyder attempted to make a left-hand turn on the highway.

Damage to the Green automobile amounted to $25 and that of the Snyder car, $20. Private M. J. Wargo, of the York substation of the Pennsylvania motor police, conducted an investigation.

Orange Shoberb, 15c pint. "Sweetland."

REGISTRATION IS UNDERWAY

About 35 countians appeared at the county commissioners' office Monday evening from 6:30 to 9:30 o'clock to register, list changes of address or change party enrollment, Chief Clerk Winfield C. Horner said.

The office will be open during the same hours this evening and Wednesday evening for the convenience of electors of Adams county who wish to register in time to vote at the September primaries. All registration before the primaries ends at noon on Saturday.

SENTENCED IN YORK

Raymond C. Plank, Gettysburg R. 3, was sentenced to the York county jail for 60 days on Monday in court in York county. Plank previously had entered a plea of guilty to the charge following his arrest near Dillsburg.

99 ON WPA JOBS TO BE DISMISSED IN THIS COUNTY

The dismissal of 99 certified workers in Adams county who have been continuously employed by the Work Projects administration for eighteen months or more is scheduled to begin today and continue daily on a balanced schedule until September 1, the deadline set by the law. It was announced from W.P.A. headquarters in Harrisburg.

The separations are being made in accordance with statutory requirements in the relief act of 1939 prohibiting continuous employment except for veterans, for more than eighteen months.

Since the review of the employment records has not been completed at this time, the number of those whose dismissals are to begin today does not represent the total number in the county whose employment will be effected by the eighteen month provision.

The dismissals are not expected to effect materially the present employment total in the county. Officials say, Colonel Philip Mathews, state administrator, has authorized the replacement—as far as it is necessary and current quotas permit—of those persons who are to be dismissed with others from the lists in the county of those who have been certified and are waiting assignment.

No person discharged because of this provision in the law will be eligible for re-assignment until the expiration of thirty days from the date of discharge, and will be eligible at such time only upon re-certification by the County Assistance Board.

Colonel Mathews pointed out that re-certification after the lapse of thirty days does not entitle a person to immediate re-assignment but merely entitles him to have his name placed in the file of persons waiting re-assignment. New assignments from this file are to be made on a basis of relative need.

Bigler 4-H Club Members Plan Tour

Members of the Biglerville 4-H baby beef club have completed plans for a tour of the homes of the members of the York Springs club on Thursday afternoon. The club members will meet at the Biglerville auditorium at 2:30 o'clock and end the tour with a weiner roast at the Earl Peters home, Gardners R. 1, in the evening. Assistant County Agent Russell Mollenauer will accompany the club members.

On Friday evening the York Springs club members will meet at 7:45 o'clock at the home of Ray Reinecker for an important session at which plans will be made for taking the young beeves to the South Mountain fair grounds for display during fair week.

Mr. Mollenauer will meet with the members of the South Mountain Pig Breeding 4-H club on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Glenn Slaybaugh, Gettysburg R. D.

Miss Virginia Myers is spending several days in New York City.

Town Fathers Claim New Creek Channel Would End Pollution; State Disagrees

Biglerville Teacher Resigns Position

Cyrus G. Bucher, Biglerville, has resigned his position as head of the commercial department of the Biglerville high school in order to accept a position in the offices of the C. H. Musselman canning company. He has been employed at the Musselman company all summer. His resignation becomes effective immediately.

Mr. Bucher has been a member of the Biglerville faculty for the past three years.

STOCK TO TEACH IN UNIVERSITY

William S. Stock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Stock, 20 East Middle street, has accepted a student-assistantship at the Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Maryland. Mr. Stock will teach a course in "The Mathematics of Finance and Statistics," substituting for Dr. G. H. Evans, who has been granted a temporary leave of absence to do special work for the bureau of economics research.

Mr. Stock will continue his studies in the political economy department of the graduate school, working toward a degree of doctor of philosophy.

He was graduated from St. Mary's college at Emmitsburg in 1937 and received his master of business administration degree from the Wharton school of finance at the University of Pennsylvania last June.

Operated Upon for Removal of Appendix

Mrs. Francis Sterner, New Oxford, was admitted to the Warner hospital Monday evening where she submitted to an operation for the removal of her appendix. Her condition was reported to be good this morning.

Patients discharged Monday afternoon included: Mrs. Cornelius Nitchman and Charlotte Nitchman, Aspers; Barbara Yoder, Biglerville; Rosemary Sanders, Emmitsburg; Paul A. Harner, Emmitsburg; Martha Raffensperger, Biglerville R. D.; and Ila Jane Kuykendall, Chambersburg street.

New Building Will Be Erected in Benner's Grove

Announcement was made today that a new building to measure 16x100 feet is being erected at Benner's grove along the Taneytown road where fire destroyed a smaller structure last Saturday morning.

The annual Mt. Joy community picnic will be held in the grove on August 16 and 17.

The new building will serve as kitchen and also will provide for a sheltered dining area.

Complaints from citizens and from the Gettysburg office of the National park service about "stream pollution" in Rock creek below the borough sewage disposal plant and about the resulting unpleasant odors came to the attention of borough council Monday evening through a communication from the state Department of Health.

Disagreeing with statements made in the letter by Louis K. Sheffer, district engineer in the Health department, Dr. E. D. Hudson, Sr., president of the Gettysburg board of health, and members of council held that the key to the situation lies in opening the creek channel through National park lands and thereby improving the flow of water.

The borough's health and sewer committees and Solicitor E. V. Bulleit were directed to confer with the national government on the possibility of stream improvement work below the sewage plant.

State Official Visited Town Mr. Sheffer, in his letter which was read to council by Doctor Hudson, explained observations made on a visit here on July 20 and referred frequently to "stream pollution" and the discharge of "partly treated" sewage from the borough's plant into Rock creek.

The health board president took issue with the state official on that point and declared: "I believe we have a very efficient plant and a very efficient plant operator. I don't believe anything is being run into the creek that could prove offensive in any way."

In his letter Mr. Sheffer recommended the installation of a secondary sewage treatment or oxidation unit to the local plant. Such an addition would cost between $30,000 and $50,000 council has been told on previous occasions.

Doctor Hudson emphatically expressed his opposition to any such expenditure by the borough and asserted:

"I'll resign tonight before I'll okay anything like that."

The local health board head continued his reading of the letter, frequently interrupting himself to comment on its contents.

Historical Question When Mr. Sheffer in his communication referred to the Gettysburg gas plant along North Stratton street as a source of contamination of the Tiber, a tributary of Rock creek, Doctor Hudson pointed out that the plant has been closed down four years.

Council was reminded that several years ago a move to have C.C.C. or other government labor used to open the Rock creek channel below town was blocked by the historical division of the National park service which held that the historical importance of the stream would be damaged by the proposed changes.

Members of the borough body agreed that downstream improvements will help the flow of water in the creek and asserted their confidence that the disposal plant is "doing a good job."

SIXTY ATTEND N.C.C.W. MEET

The Gettysburg parish council of the National Council of Catholic Women held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening in the parochial social rooms, West High street. There were about sixty members present.

The meeting was opened with prayer, followed by the singing of the Catholic Action hymn.

The report of the secretary and the "monthly Message" was read by Miss Ruth Hamilton.

The Rev. Fr. Raphael Gross presented a brief account of the life of Matt Talbot, a saintly Irish laborer from Dublin, whose cause for beatification was introduced at Rome.

This was followed by a detailed report of the youth program at the convention in Shamokin. The following, who attended the convention, read papers: Miss Mary Elizabeth Redding, Miss Mary Catherine Heltzel, Frances Heltzel, Marie Robinson, Rosetta McKendrick, Amelia Hemler, Peggy Ramer.

After the meeting was closed a social hour was held and refreshments were served.

Minister's Daughter To Wed on Saturday

Miss Catherine H. Beard, daughter of the Rev. Paul B. Beard, pastor of the Mt. Joy Lutheran church, and Mrs. Beard, and Ira R. Saylor, Pottstown, will be united in marriage at a ceremony to be performed Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Mt. Joy Lutheran church. The bride's father will officiate.

Members of the Mt. Joy and the Harney Lutheran congregations, which comprise the Rev. Mr. Beard's charge, have been invited to attend the ceremony. There will be a reception at the parsonage after the ceremony for members of the families and close friends.

PAYS SPEEDING FINE

Harold Ivan Mellor, Sebring, Ohio, paid Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore a $10 fine and the costs on a charge of speeding at 60 miles an hour, Monday afternoon. A state motor policeman from the Gettysburg substation made the arrest.

HIGH COURT TO DECIDE LEGALITY OF LIQUOR VOTE

Pittsburgh, Aug. 8 (AP)—Legality of liquor and beer referenda at the September 12 primary will be decided early next month at a special session of the Pennsylvania Supreme court.

Chief Justice John W. Kephart announced he would convene the tribunal, in view of the question of local option being raised in Allegheny, Cumberland, Chester, Northumberland and Lycoming counties.

This development followed common pleas Judge John P. Egan's dismissal here of an injunction petition seeking to block a wet-dry referendum on grounds the 1937 local option act prevented such a vote at a primary occurring less than 60 days before a general election.

The legislature, Judge Egan said, meant to permit local option votes at any primary, regardless of the 60-day clause.

Another issue for the high court raised by those opposing the referendum is whether petition signers must be voters or merely residents of a community.

Four Adams county districts have petitioned for local option votes.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 8 (AP)—Attorney David B. Pitler said today he would carry the fight against local option referenda at the September primaries to the Pennsylvania Supreme court so that a state-wide ruling could be obtained.

KIMPLE NAMED COUNCILMAN

Middle street be limited to the south side as a safety measure similar to that imposed several years ago in the first block. Other councilmen agreed on the point.

Council declined to grant exonerations on long lists of tax delinquents presented by Collector H. H. Thomas. The lists were returned to Mr. Thomas with instructions to make a personal canvass of each person on the lists. Later council can act in cases where collection is impossible, members indicated. Councilmen said they believe some of the unpaid tax can be collected.

Expressing the opinion that the present janitor at the engine house is "one of the best we ever had," council granted the request of Roy Enoch, West Middle street, for a $10 per month increase in salary for his full-time duties which include tending the plot in center square. The raise to $80 per month will become effective on the next pay day, August 15.

Council ordered delivery this month of a previously ordered carload of chlorine for use at the sewage disposal plant.

With one opposing vote, council decided to transfer the general fund checking account from the Gettysburg National bank to the First National bank of Gettysburg, while the special fund checking account remains at the Gettysburg National where both accounts have been for years. The change was made, councilmen said, in the interest of a more equal distribution of the borough finances between the two local institutions. For several years it has been the practice of council to divide borough loans between the two banking houses.

Burgess Heiges called the attention of council to the damage being done to high curbs in the southern half of center square by car bumpers. Council directed Borough Engineer LeRoy H. Winebrenner to ask the state Highway department, which has charge of maintenance of the square, to place several inches of amestite or other material along the parking zone in that half of the square so that the bumpers will not strike the curbing. High curbs at several pedestrian crossings also will be called to the attention of the Highway department.

Frank Moticka, Hanover street, will be advised that council will lay a sewer line from East Middle street to the rear of his property if he will pay the cost estimated at $200. An investigating committee recommended that the line should not be laid at borough expense because a sewer connection is available to Mr. Moticka on Hanover street.

Clyde Williams will be sent a notice to fix the pavement and curb at his Hanover street property. Harry Bumbaugh will be notified to remove unapproved drain pipes in front of the Shell service station on Buford avenue or secure council's sanction for their use. The drains are closed, resulting in a flooding of the street, council heard.

The monthly report of Burgess Heiges showed these receipts: Building permits, $16; digging permits, $27; sewer permit, 75 cents; guides' licenses, $3; peddlers' permits, $7.50; roller rental, $18; theatre tax, $344.26 and fines $15.

President Ray M. Hoffman presided with Councilmen F. B. Sionaker, D. D. Kendlehart, Samuel B. Weikert, H. M. Oyler, William H. Scott and Clyde D. Berger in attendance. Burgess Heiges, Solicitor E. V. Bullett, Treasurer Fred O. Pfeffer, Secretary Wilmer Dracha and Borough Engineer L. H. Winebrenner also attended.

The August meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of Christ Lutheran church was held Monday evening at the church. Mrs. M. Hadwin Fischer, who expects to leave in September for an extended visit with her son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. Herman D. Hammer, in South America, resigned from the presidency of the organization. Her place was filled by Mrs. Robert Fortenbaugh, former vice-president. Mrs. H. D. Hoover was elected vice-president. Mrs. John Sanderson was elected secretary, replacing Mrs. Fred Haer who has left Gettysburg.

The topic for study was "Giving" with Mrs. A. Z. Rodgers and Mrs. J. I. Burgoon as the leaders. Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars gave a short talk on the topic. Mrs. Roy Dunkelberger told of the manner in which a missionary meeting is conducted in India and how a program on "Giving" is presented in that country.

ENGLAND WILL TEST DEFENSES WITH BLACKOUT

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—British anti-aircraft defenses were manned today against a make-believe "enemy" bombers raid in a spectacular prologue to full dress rehearsal of the nation's armed forces.

The raiders—300 of them—will operate from the south and east. One group of Royal Air Force planes playing the part of the enemy will fly over France tonight to wheel back from the vicinity of Beauvais, northwest of Paris. The rest will swoop in from the north sea.

Their jobs will be to dodge 800 defending planes, some 1400 anti-aircraft guns and a barrage of 500 or so captive balloons designed to fend off bombing planes. It was estimated that about 60,000 men would take part in the exercise, which continues to Friday night.

The climax of the aerial maneuvers will come with a blackout at 12:30 a. m. Thursday covering half of England, including London. Street lights and traffic signals will be snapped out and all-night restaurants and clubs darkened along with docks and railway stations. Trains and buses will operate with screened lights. A small army of air raid precautions forces will test the efficiency of their organization.

Along with the air war games is a program of sea maneuvers between the home fleet and the reserve fleet, which King George will review at Weymouth Wednesday. Land forces are similarly undergoing a vast training program which will reach a climax with one of the biggest peacetime "battles" in Britain's history in Yorkshire September 14 to 21.

The admiralty issued a call today for 3,000 former sailors and marines to man training ships for conscripts, and certain ships of the reserve fleet and to work with the naval air service.

The program of maneuvers between now and the end of September calls for a parade of the full power of British armed forces. Observers saw two motives—to have armaments at the peak of efficiency against any emergency and to lend weight to British commitments such as the promise to back Poland against a Danzig coup.

Government circles expected a full report Wednesday from William Strang, foreign office expert returning home from Moscow, on the progress of negotiations to bring Soviet Russia into the British-French front.

Miss Anna May Orner, Biglerville, returned home Sunday evening after spending a week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Lentz, Cashtown.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Plank and daughter, Shirley Ann, Gettysburg R. D., spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Orner, Biglerville.

Miss Jacqueline Parsons, of Flora Dale, left today to spend several days in Philadelphia with her father, Frederick Parsons, after which she will go on to New York city for a visit.

Miss Eleanor Dill and Miss Dorothy Walton, of Biglerville, spent the day in Harrisburg.

The Misses Janet and Betty Lupp, of Biglerville, and Miss Helen Peters, of Aspers, have returned from Caledonia where they camped for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peters and family, Hanover R. D., and Robert Peters, of Hagerstown, Md., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George M. Peters, of Guernsey.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sandoe, of near Biglerville, entertained a number of relatives and friends at dinner Friday evening. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Meade Lupp, daughter, Dorothy, and son, Kenneth and Mr. and Mrs. Curtin Eldred, all of Dayton, Ohio; Mrs. W. HISTORY SHOWS 10-GAME LEADER CAN'T BE BEATEN

By BILL WHITE

Associated Press Sports Writer

It's no longer a question of baseball, it's a matter of history.

About the Yanks and the Reds winning their respective league titles, that is.

An unnamed hero has pored through history's pages—going clear back to the days of mustache cups and horseshoe furniture—to find out that no team that has once during the season held a 10-game lead is ever beaten for the title.

Caught, yes; passed, perhaps, but never nosed out, no matter how hot the pace set by those clubs who try to scoop up in September what they missed in May.

So all the tears shed for what was the worst home stand of the year for the Yanks, or for the woes of Bill McKeechie, are crocodile of the deepest dye.

However general that knowledge may be, it certainly hasn't slowed any of the other teams up—indicating maybe that the boys are not well versed in history, or just don't care. One of the teams in that category is the Brooklyn Dodgers, still giving the old college try from a second division berth.

With Larry MacPhail masterminding them into a new attendance—if not a new attitude-record, he may have results yet this year but certainly will in years to come.

Monday night, in the National league's only game, the Dodgers snipped the Boston Bees 7-6 as 27,950 Flatbushers watched Dixie Walker make his Brooklyn debut. He did it up properly, singling in the tenth with two out to give the merry Macks another in their series of extra-long night battles.

In the only other game played in the majors, another newcomer, Lou Boudreau, up from Buffalo, sparked the Cleveland Indians to a 6-5 win over the St. Louis Browns.

Through the game-winning blow was delivered by dependable Roy Weatherly, Boudreau was the defensive hero, covering ground like a rainstorm and contributing two hits, one a triple.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Scoop: The Dixie grapevine says Seymour Weiss, the Louisiana politician, is trying to peddle the New Orleans Pelicans to Bill Terry. Correction: Mike Welch, the half-backing pride of St. James (Minnesota) who was tickled for Alabama here, has decided to enlist at Minnesota instead. (Proving all the stars do not fall on Alabama). Mike Jacobs is going to give Boston a look at Patrick Edward Combs. Washington sent Minneapolis a first sacker in a pinch and the Millers will return the favor by giving Washington first call on one of their slab stars.

Unfair competition—The Yankee stadium is infested with Japanese beetles and Joe McCarthy says it's asking too much to expect the Yanks to beat them and the Injuns, too.

Ed Danowski, the football pitcher, will kill us for spilling this, but he's studying folk dancing at Columbia.

The Manitowish (Wisconsin) high school has tabbed No. 13 since Otley Smith, its 8-letter sports star (who always wore it) was killed in a plane crash. Wrestling still is legitimate news in North Carolina and the other day one of the Charlotte papers boasted it had announced the weekly feature a day ahead of the opposition. Dr. Homer Rainey, who "jumped" the Houston club back in 1919 to become president of the University of Texas, gets his formal release at a ceremony Friday night.

Today's guest star—Tom Meany, New York World-Telegram: "Al Schacht will perform at Ebbets field tonight and for the first time in years Dodger fans will have no difficulty telling which is Schacht."

Carl Snavely can give you six reasons why his Cornell football team will be better this year, which puts him exactly six up on most of his colleagues. Old Charlie Root says he is not the only Cub player past the 40-year mark—he is just the only one who'll admit it. Mel Hein, their star center, who was given a "sign or resign" ultimatum, already has left the coast to join the football Giants at Superior, Wisconsin. With center Steve Hughes on crutches with a broken toe, the University of Georgia claims the first 1939 football casualty.

Shame on him—Out in Bloomington, (Illinois) the other night a guy named Benenberger ruined a no-hit game for a guy named Jim Hayes. Taking the culprit to task, the Bloomington Pantagraph said: "He didn't do it standing up, then swinging like a man. No, he did it with a bunt; a deceitful back-alley ruse that gave Mr. Benenberger a hit but did him no honor. 'Twas the flea-dittiest, swayed-back-est, moth-eatenest hit that ever marred a pitcher's record." P. S., then, the Pantagraph put old Beny in the box score at "B2brg."

Advt. dept.—

Bill McKeechie, who has the jitters.

$150,000 BLAZE IN WILKES-BARRE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—Ten firemen were overcome by smoke in a fire which gutted a central city store and damaged four adjoining business places early today. Unofficially the damage was estimated at $150,000.

The fire broke out in the basement of McCrory's store and within a short time the flames had spread through the three-story building.

Smoke damaged stock in the Boston store, Lerner dress shop, Bulm brothers and Ansonia millinery.

Samuel Phillips, employed in a nearby candy store, discovered the blaze when he was returning from work and sounded the alarm.

TICKET

Williamsport, Pa. Aug. 8 (AP)—A ticket a day doesn't keep the cops away, a Williamsport motorist discovered. Finding a parking summons under his windshield wiper, he pocketed it and drove away. Then he parked again in the same place and put back the ticket to give the impression he had not moved. He got another ticket.

HOPKINS SEES BUSINESS WELL AHEAD OF 1938

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Hopkins said today that business progress during July represented a continuation of a "recovery movement" started in May, with activity well ahead of a year ago in all major lines.

Prospects for third quarter business have improved, he said and business policies generally reflect less hesitancy.

Retailer commitments in wholesale markets are enlarged, Hopkins' report showed, and industrial purchasing has expanded. Orders in many clothing lines showing substantial gains over the earlier part of the year were cited as indicative of the more confident attitude toward fall business.

Construction operations were at a seasonal peak, activity in the industry being even greater than in the summer of 1937.

Retail trade in July was well ahead of a year ago, with marked gains in consumers' durable goods such as automobiles, refrigerators, furniture and electrical appliances, and gasoline consumption was at record levels.

Consumers' budgets were said to have benefited from lower food costs as compared with a year ago. Consumers' incomes in July were on a higher seasonally adjusted basis than in June, following a substantial rise in employees' compensation from May to June.

Industrial activity in July maintained a better than seasonal pace; movement of freight increased more than was seasonally expected and was 12 per cent higher than in July, 1938.

The rise in steel production from the June average of 53 per cent of capacity to 60 per cent by the end of July was one of the outstanding developments, the secretary said.

Automobile production was temporarily slack, because of a change-over to new models earlier than usual, but preparations for the 1940 cars are underway actively.

Activity in most lines lagged behind the summer of 1937, Hopkins said. Durable goods industries compare unfavorably with that period. Consumers' good industries are about the same.

Increases are shown in shipbuilding, aircraft, petroleum refining, and electric power as well as the construction industry.

FUN CYCLE

London—John Hillery, a wedding guest, thought it would be funny to hide the motorcycle the bride and bridegroom planned to use for a honeymoon trip—but the joke backfired. As he sat in the saddle pushing the motorcycle out of sight he met a policeman who charged him with—(1) Driving a vehicle while under the influence of drink; (2) taking the machine without the consent of the owner; (3) using it without insurance policy; and (4) having no driver's license. Since the bride was Hillery's sister, he got off with a $9 fine.

WELL POSTED

Ambridge, Pa.—The family of which Mrs. A. A. Engstrom is a member doesn't claim to be a championship letter writing clan—but its five women haven't lost track of each other. In 45 years they exchanged 17,576 pieces of mail, running up an $800 postage bill writing twice weekly "things that nobody but us would care about."

RIDE 'EM

Montrose, Calif.—In his automobile, Deputy Sheriff L. H. Puffer overtook Miss Patricia Repally's runaway horse. He lifted the girl from the horse's back in true wild-west style. Then decided to ride the horse back to the stable. The horse objected, tossed Puffer off. Puffer suffered a broken thumb and cuts and bruises.

COWBOY!

Salt Lake City—This little steer (1,000 pounds) didn't go to market, but he really went to town. Lee (Buckboard) Beckstead, Jr., former cowboy and now a fireman, bulldozed the animal on the sidewalk after it had disrupted downtown traffic an hour. The steer was hoisted into a patrol wagon and taken to the city pound to await its owner.

CONVENIENT!

Lemars, Ia.—Justice C. E. Clarke fined Harry Connor, Wakefield, Nebraska, $10 a week ago because one of his trucks was overloaded. Connor came in several days later to pay the fine but first had the justice marry him to Olga Kay, also of Wakefield. He paid the fine and the marriage fee at the same time.

SCRAMBLED EGG

Grand Island, Neb.—A large white hen struck the front end of Dan Hanhons' automobile. He investigated and found an egg—headly scrambled—in his right headlight.

SHOELACE

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Peterson's life hung by a shoelace—a broken shoelace—when she was trapped in her room by a blaze Monday. She thought she was alone, but her son-in-law, Joseph Berry, had lingered in the house to mend his shoelace. He rescued her.

DINER

Bloomington, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—A certain diner in a local restaurant wishes he'd looked behind him before he started expressing dissatisfaction with his food in language unbecoming a gentleman. When he did look, there were four state troopers. They arrested him for disorderly conduct.

10,000 SOLDIERS 'BLASTED' OUT OF BED WITH MUSIC

By RICK YAHNER

Manassas, Va., Aug. 8 (AP)—Pennsylvania's National Guardsmen were "blasted" out of their bunks today by the blast of brass bands. Regimental orders were: Get 10,000 men out of bed with a song. Bandmen got a tough break because they had to get up 15 minutes before the others.

So "Beer Barrel Polka" blared through the regimental areas as soon as reveille at 5:15 a. m.

Field problems before the four-day "battle" between National Guardsmen and one of the finest regular Army divisions are so pressing that close-order drill can't be included in training.

Therefore the sunrise serenade was a bit of discipline. The soldiers also were "played" to work and back again.

The fast-moving, hard-hitting mechanized division of regular Army that will oppose the National Guardsmen started concentrating today at Virginia forests to be the "enemy" in the Army's third corps war games.

In theory, a force of about 20,000 men of "Black" army was encamped just south of historic Fredericksburg, waiting to strike at nation's capital.

To plot a defense against this section of the "invader," entrenched on a line from New Brunswick to Cambridge in New Jersey, the officers of the third corps defenders—comprising the 28th and 29th divisions—were required to execute field orders in expectation of next week's four-day battle. This will be carried out realistically, with blanks in every gun among 23,000 officers and men. The fighting starts Monday.

Water restrictions in camp were eased today, with efficient repairs to a damaged supply line. Each man a 10-gallon daily ration.

The youngest soldier in the Pennsylvania encampment is eight-year-old Shannon Stauffer, son of Lieutenant and Mrs. Caryll F. Stauffer, of Lancaster. His father commands headquarters detachment, second battalion, 213th coast artillery regiment (anti-aircraft). The boy helps Mess Sergeant A. C. Evans and Cook Victor Shay, both of Lancaster.

They call him "third lieutenant." In special orders, Major General Edward Martin, commander of the 29th division, commended the 10-year-old artillery, Wilkes-Barre, for "attention to duty and efficient performance of guard duty." The same order complimented the 11th infantry, Philadelphia, Pottstown, Phoenixville, West Chester and Chester on the "appearance, orderliness and cleanliness of their regimental area."

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Engine company 20 "raced" to a fire at a Filbert street clothing store. When they had made the three-block run, the fire was out. A sprinkler system beat them to it.

HOUSING, FARM, TRADE TOPICS SEEN IN 1940

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—House republicans aimed today to have a definite program on at least three major topics—housing, agriculture and reciprocal trade agreements—to present at the 1940 session of congress as alternatives to administration measures.

Minority Leader Martin (R-Mass) probably will appoint special committees in the near future to study each of the subjects and to draft legislation. He declined to discuss the matter before leaving for home, except to say it was under consideration.

The housing question was among those selected for study. It was understood, because most members regard it as certain to be revived by the administration next year. Some senators expressed the opinion, however, that its companion bill—the lending measure which the house killed—would not be re-offered if business improves.

The reciprocal trade agreements subject was on the republican list. It was said, because Martin included it in his 12-point "recovery program" announced last April. At that time, he called for creation of a special congressional committee to investigate the effect of the trade program on industry and agriculture.

Some republicans were not optimistic about the chances of any party committee working out a solution to the farm problem.

With only a handful of legislators left in Washington, there were indications that government spending again would be a major issue in the next congress. Economy-minded members predicted they would be able to effect substantial cutbacks in federal appropriations.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) told reporters that spending had been necessary to care for the needy, but added "that we can't continue to spend more money than we take in."

HISTORY SHOWS 10-GAME LEADER CAN'T BE BEATEN

By BILL WHITE

Associated Press Sports Writer
It's no longer a question of baseball, it's a matter of history.

About the Yanks and the Reds winning their respective league titles, that is.

An unnamed hero has pored through history's pages—going clear back to the days of mustache cups and horseshair furniture—to find out that no team that has once during the season held a 10-game lead is ever beaten for the title.

Caught, yes; passed, perhaps, but never nosed out, no matter how hot the pace set by those clubs who try to scoop up in September what they missed in May.

So all the tears shed for what was the worst home stand of the year for the Yankees, or for the woes of Bill McKechnie, are crocodile of the deepest dye.

However general that knowledge may be, it certainly hasn't slowed any of the other teams up—indicating maybe that the boys are not well versed in history, or just don't care. One of the teams in that category is the Brooklyn Dodgers, still giving the old college try from a second division berth.

With Larry MacPhail masterminding them into a new attendance—if not a new altitude-record, he may have results yet this year but certainly will in years to come.

Monday night, in the National league's only game, the Dodgers snipped the Boston Bees 7-6 as 27-950 Flatbushers watched Dixie Walker make his Brooklyn debut. He did it up properly, singling in the tenth with two out to give the merry Macs another in their series of extra-long night battles.

In the only other game played in the majors, another newcomer, Lou Boudreau, up from Buffalo, sparked the Cleveland Indians to a 6-5 win over the St. Louis Browns.

Though the game-winning blow was delivered by dependable Roy Weatherly, Boudreau was the defensive hero, covering ground like a rainstorm and contributing two hits, one a triple.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

FC New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Scoop: The Dixie grapevine says Seymour Weiss, the Louisiana politician, is trying to peddle the New Orleans Pelicans to Bill Terry. . . . Correction: Mike Welch, the half-backing pride of St. James (Minnesota) who was ticketed for Alabama here, has decided to enlist at Minnesota instead. (Proving all the stars do not fall on Alabama). . . . Mike Jacobs is going to give Boston a look at Patrick Edward Comiskey. . . . Washington sent Minneapolis a first sacker in a pinch and the Millers will return the favor by giving Washington first call on one of their slab stars.

Unfair competition—The Yankee stadium is infested with Japanese beetles and Joe McCarthy says it's asking too much to expect the Yanks to beat them and the Injuns, too.

Ed Danowski, the football pitcher, will kill us for spilling this, but he's studying folk dancing at Columbia. . . . The Manitowish (Wisconsin) high school has tabbed No. 13 since Otley Smith, its 8-letter sports star (who always wore it) was killed in a plane crash. . . . Wrestling still is legitimate news in North Carolina and the other day one of the Charlotte papers boasted it had announced the weekly feature a day ahead of the opposition. . . . Dr. Homer Rainey, who "jumped" the Houston ball club back in 1919 to become president of the University of Texas, gets his formal release at a ceremony Friday night.

Today's guest star—Tom Meany, New York World-Telegram: "Al Schacht will perform at Ebbets field tonight and for the first time in years Dodger fans will have no difficulty telling which is Schacht."

Carl Snively can give you six reasons why his Cornell football team will be better this year, which puts him exactly six up on most of his colleagues. . . . Old Charlie Root says he is not the only Cub player past the 40-year mark—he is just the only one who'll admit it. . . . Me! Hein, their star center, who was given a "sign or resign" ultimatum, already has left the coast to join the football Giants at Superior, Wisconsin. . . . With center Steve Hughes on crutches with a broken toe, University of Georgia claims the first 1939 football casualty.

Shame on him—Out in Bloomington, (Illinois) the other night a guy named Bencenberg ruined a no-hit game for a guy named Jim Hayes. Taking the culprit to task, the Bloomington Pantagraph said: "He didn't do it standing up being swinging like a man. . . . No, he did it with a bunt; a deceitful back-alley ruse that gave Mr. Bencenberg a hit but did him no honor. "It was the flea-dittener, swayed-back-est, moth-eaten hit that ever marred a pitcher's record." P. S., then the Pantagraph put old Benzy in the box score at "B'z'rg."

$150,000 BLAZE IN WILKES-BARRE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—Ten firemen were overcome by smoke in a fire which gutted a central city store and damaged four adjoining business places early today. Unofficially the damage was estimated at $150,000.

The fire broke out in the basement of McCrory's store and within a short time the flames had spread through the three-story building. Smoke damaged stock in the Boston store, Lerner dress shop, Bulm brothers and Ansonia millinery. Samuel Phillips, employed in a nearby candy store, discovered the blaze when he was returning from work and sounded the alarm.

TICKET

Williamsport, Pa. Aug. 8 (AP)—A ticket a day doesn't keep the cops away, a Williamsport motorist discovered. Finding a parking summons under his windshield wiper, he pocketed it and drove away. Then he parked again in the same place and put back the ticket to give the impression he had not moved. He got another ticket.

HOPKINS SEES BUSINESS WELL AHEAD OF 1938

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Hopkins said today that business progress during July represented a continuation of a "recovery movement" started in May, with activity well ahead of a year ago in all major lines.

Prospects for third quarter business have improved, he said and business policies generally reflect less hesitancy.

Retailer commitments in wholesale markets are enlarged, Hopkins' report showed, and industrial purchasing has expanded. Orders in many clothing lines showing substantial gains over the earlier part of the year were cited as indicative of the more confident attitude toward fall business.

Construction operations were at a seasonal peak, activity in the industry being even greater than in the summer of 1937.

Retail trade in July was well ahead of a year ago, with marked gains in consumers' durable goods such as automobiles, refrigerators, furniture and electrical appliances, and gasoline consumption was at record levels.

Consumers' budgets were said to have benefitted from lower food costs as compared with a year ago. Consumers' incomes in July were on a higher seasonally adjusted basis than in June, following a substantial rise in employees' compensation from May to June.

Industrial activity in July maintained a better than seasonal pace; movement of freight increased more than was seasonally expected and was 12 per cent higher than in July, 1938.

The rise in steel production from the June average of 53 per cent of capacity of 60 per cent by the end of July was one of the outstanding developments, the secretary said.

Automobile production was temporarily slack, because of a change-over to new models earlier than usual, but preparations for the 1940 cars are underway actively.

Activity in most lines lagged behind the summer of 1937, Hopkins said. Durable goods industries compare unfavorably with that period. Consumers' good industries are about the same.

Increases are shown in shipbuilding, aircraft, petroleum refining, and electric power as well as the construction industry.

FUN CYCLE

London.—John Hillery, a wedding guest, thought it would be funny to hide the motorcycle the bride and bridegroom planned to use for a honeymoon trip—but the joke backfired. As he sat in the saddle pushing the motorcycle out of sight he met a policeman who charged him with—(1) Driving a vehicle while under the influence of drink; (2) taking the machine without the consent of the owner; (3) using it without insurance policy; and (4) having no driver's license. Since the bride was Hillery's sister, he got off with a $9 fine.

WELL POSTED

Ambridge, Pa.—The family of which Mrs. Al A. Engstrom is a member doesn't claim to be a championship letter writing clan—but its five women haven't lost track of each other. In 45 years they exchanged 17,576 pieces of mail, running up an $800 postage bill writing twice weekly "things that nobody but us would care about."

RIDE 'EM—

Montrose, Calif.—In his automobile, Deputy Sheriff L. H. Pulfer overtook Miss Patricia Repath's runaway horse. He lifted the girl from the horse's back in true wild-west style. Then decided to ride the horse back to the stable. The horse objected, tossed Pulfer off. Pulfer suffered a broken thumb and cuts and bruises.

COWBOY!

Salt Lake City—This little steer (1,000 pounds) didn't go to market but he really went to town. Lee (Buckboard) Beckstead, Jr., former cowboy and now a fireman, bulldozed the animal on the sidewalk after it had disrupted downtown traffic an hour. The steer was hoisted into a patrol wagon and taken to the city pound to await its owner.

CONVENIENT!

Lemars, Ia.—Justice C. E. Clarke fined Harry Connor, Wakefield, Nebraska, $10 a week ago because one of his trucks was overloaded. Connor came in several days later to pay the fine but first had the justice marry him to Olga Kay, also of Wakefield. He paid the fine and the marriage fee at the same time.

SCRAMBLED EGG

Grand Island, Neb.—A large white hen struck the front end of Dan Hannon's automobile. He investigated and found an egg—neatly scrambled—in his right headlight.

SHOELACE

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Peterson's life hung by a shoelace—a broken shoelace—when she was trapped in her room by a blaze Monday. She thought she was alone, but her son-in-law, Joseph Berry, had lingered in the house to mend his shoelace. He rescued her.

DINER

Bloomsburg, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—A certain diner in a local restaurant wishes he'd looked behind him before he started expressing dissatisfaction with his food in language unbecoming a gentleman. When he did look, there were four state troopers. They arrested him for disorderly conduct.

10,000 SOLDIERS 'BLASTED' OUT OF BED WITH MUSIC

By RICE YAHNER

Manassas, Va., Aug. 8 (AP)—Pennsylvania's National Guardsmen were "blasted" out of their bunks today by the blare of brass bands. Regimental orders were: Get 10,000 men out of bed with a song. Bandsmen got a tough break because they had to get up 15 minutes before the others.

So "Beer Barrel Polka" blared through the regimental areas as soon as reveille at 5:15 a. m.

Senators Wheeler, McCarran (D-Nev) and George (D-Ga) expressed the view that business would pick up before the first of the year, and that this would make it easier to reduce spending.

Saying congress already has checked "pump priming expenditures" and has "regained its responsibility for control of spending policies," George added that there would be "even more opposition" to the lending program if it is proposed again at the next session.

$30,000 REWARD FOR GANGSTER

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Somewhere in hiding today is a middle-aged man with a $30,000 price on his head.

He is Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, 42, a stocky, swarthy, big-nosed gangster—newest wearer of the ever-shifting title, "public enemy No. 1." J. Edgar Hoover, G-man chief whose men have hunted Lepke for two years, will pay $5,000 for him.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey—thanks to action Monday by the city board of estimate—has raised New York's ante to $25,000.

Both Hoover and Dewey have promised to keep secret the name of the person who "puts the finger" on Lepke, and the reward will be paid whether the fugitive racketeer, held responsible by Dewey for the slaying of five former associates since he jumped $10,000 bail, is captured dead or alive.

The search for Lepke was just one angle of an assault against a national "confederacy of crime" undertaken by a federal grand jury impaneled Monday by United States Attorney John T. Cahill.

Several business executives were named on the jury which prepared to begin immediate consideration of an 86-volume "encyclopedia of crime" prepared by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Hoover, F.B.I. chief, is taking personal command of the investigative end of the "anti-crime" drive.

HIGH COURT TO DECIDE LEGALITY OF LIQUOR VOTE

Penn. Aug. 8 (AP).—Legality of liquor and beer referendum at the November 12 primary will be decided early next month at a special session of the Pennsylvania Supreme court.

Chief Justice John W. Kephar, announced he would convene the court in view of the question of liquor being raised in Allegheny, Cumberland, Chester, Northampton and Lycoming counties.

The development followed comment by Judge John P. Egan's dissent in a majority opinion in a case to block a wet-dry referendum on the 1937 local option law, occurring less than 60 days before a general election.

The legislature, Judge Egan said, cannot permit local option votes to be primary, regardless of the 60-day clause.

Another issue for the high court raised by those opposing the referendum is whether petition signers must be voters or merely residents of a community.

Four Adams county districts have petitioned for local option votes.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 8 (AP).—Altogether David B. Pitter said today he would carry the fight against local option referendum at the September primaries to the Pennsylvania Supreme court so that a state-wide ruling could be obtained.

Council declined to grant exonerations on long lists of tax delinquents presented by Collector H. H. Thomas. The lists were returned to Mr. Thomas with instructions to make a personal canvass of each person on the lists. Later councilmen said in cases where collection is impossible, members indicated.

Councilmen said they believe some of the unpaid tax can be collected. Expressing the opinion that the present janitor at the engine house is "one of the best we ever had," council granted the request of Roy F. Smith, West Middle street, for a $10 per month increase in salary for his full-time duties which include tending the plot in center square. The raise to $80 per month will become effective on the next pay day, August 15.

Council ordered delivery this month of a previously ordered car of chlorine for use at the sewer disposal plant.

With one opposing vote, council decided to transfer the general fund checking account from the Gettysburg National bank to the First National bank of Gettysburg, while the special fund checking account remains at the Gettysburg National where both accounts have been for years. The change was made, councilmen said, in the interest of a more equal distribution of the borough finances between the two local institutions. For several years it has been the practice of council to divide borough loans between the two banking houses.

Burgess Heiges called the attention of council to the damage being done to high curbs in the southern half of center square by car bumpers. Council directed Borough Engineer LeRoy H. Weinbrener to ask the state highway department, which has charge of maintenance of the square, to place several inches of concrete or other material along the parking zone in that half of the square so that the bumpers will not strike the curbing. High curbs at several pedestrian crossings also will be called to the attention of the highway department.

Frank Moltke, Hanover street, was advised that council will lay a sewer line from East Middle street to the rear of his property if he will pay the cost estimated at $200. An investigating committee recommended that the line should not be laid at borough expense because a sewer connection is available to Mr. Moltke on Hanover street.

Clyde Williams will be sent a notice to fix the pavement and curb at his Hanover street property. Harry Bumbaugh will be notified to remove unapproved drain pipes in front of the Shell service station on Bedford avenue or secure council's sanction for their use. The drains are closed, resulting in a flooding of the street, council heard.

The monthly report of Burgess Heiges showed these receipts: Building permits, $16; digging permits, $27; sewer permits, 75 cents; guides' licenses, $3; peddlers' permits, $7.50; roller rental, $18; theatre tax, $344.26 and fines, $15.

President Ray M. Hoffman presided with Councilmen P. B. Sionaker, D. D. Kendeheart, Samuel B. Welkert, H. M. Oyer, William H. Scott and Clyde D. Berger, in attendance. Burgess Heiges, Solicitor E. V. Bullett, Treasurer Fred C. Pfeiffer, Secretary Wilmer Dycha and Borough Engineer L. H. Weinbrener also attended.

ENGLAND WILL TEST DEFENSES WITH BLACKOUT

London, Aug. 8 (AP).—British anti-aircraft defenses were manned today against a make-believe "enemy" bombers' raid in a spectacular ploy to full dress rehearsal of the nation's armed forces. The raiders—500 of them—will operate from the south and east. One group of Royal Air Force planes playing the part of the enemy will fly over France tonight to wheel back from the vicinity of Beauvais, northwest of Paris. The rest will swoop in from the north sea.

Their jobs will be to dodge 800 defending planes, some 1,400 anti-aircraft guns and a barrage of 500 or so captive balloons designed to fend off bombing planes. It was estimated that about 60,000 men would take part in the exercise, which continues to Friday night.

The climax of the aerial maneuvers will come with a blackout at 12:30 a. m. Thursday covering half of England, including London. Street lights and traffic signals will be snapped out and all-night restaurants and clubs darkened along with docks and railway stations. Trains and buses will operate with screened lights. A small army of air raid precautions forces will test the efficiency of their organization.

Along with the air war games is a program of sea maneuvers between the home fleet and the reserve fleet, which King George will review at Weymouth Wednesday. Land forces are similarly undergoing a vast training program which will reach a climax with one of the biggest peacetime "battles" in Britain's history in Yorkshire September 14 to 21.

The admiralty issued a call today for 3,000 former sailors and marines to man training ships for conscripts, and certain ships of the reserve fleet and to work with the naval air service.

An Evening Thought

It requires less character to discover the faults of others than to tolerate them.—J. Petit Senn.

Out of the Past

Happening of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Local Miscellany: There will be an exhibition of the Edison photograph in the Presbyterian lecture room, on next Saturday afternoon and evening. No charges, but a collection will be taken for the benefit of the Presbyterian organ fund. Everybody should see and hear this wonderful piece of mechanism.

Ezra Hostetter, who is now in jail has taken no nourishment since Wednesday except small quantities of ice cream, cake and cheese.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at Mrs. Dr. Swartz's next Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m.

Mr. G. S. Clark, who has been patiently sinking a well at the depot of the B. and H. R. R., in this place, has struck an abundant supply of water. The well has reached a depth of 225 feet and was tested on Saturday. The pumping continued 11 hours and it is estimated over 30,000 gallons of water were thrown. The flow was 40 to 50 gallons per minute. The work will continue with the hope of finding soft water after penetrating the rock. The present supply is hard water.

Personal Mention: Miss Lavina Schaszberger, of York, is visiting her sister, Mrs. P. D. Armor.

Rev. and Mrs. L. A. Kuhlman, of Frederick, Md., are visiting Mrs. Kuhlman's mother, Mrs. Hiram Warren.

Girl, 19, Jailed in Killing Husband

Frederick, Aug. 8 (AP)—A murder charge was filed late Monday against Mrs. Leona Draper, 19-year-old farm wife arrested following the shotgun slaying of her 41-year-old husband in their mountain home near the Washington county line. She will be held for action of the September grand jury.

State Police Corporal W. K. May quoted the youthful prisoner as saying her husband beat her and she shot him, then asked a neighbor to notify the police.

She surrendered peacefully and rode with May and Deputy Sheriff Carl Buhrman to the jail to await action by Patrick M. Schnauffer, state's attorney.

Her husband, Dewey Draper, beat her Sunday night and again Monday morning, May said she told him and when he returned to the house Monday morning after chores, she met him on the porch with a shotgun.

Struck Near Heart

A blast from the gun struck Draper near the heart and he fell dead, according to the police.

May said he was informed the Drapers, parents of a 23-month-old child, had had domestic trouble before and Mrs. Draper at one time left her husband but returned to their home at Middlepoint.

Corporal May said he took the child to Mrs. Draper's mother at nearby Jerusalem.

PICTURES CHANGED

"Each Dawn I Die" will be the feature picture at the Majestic theatre on Friday and Saturday. James Cagney and George Raft are co-started in the film. Mickey Rooney in "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever" was scheduled originally for this week-end, but that movie has been changed to August 18 and 19.

TWO OUT

Blairsville, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—Two went "out" but the batter reached first safely on an infield pop fly in a Ladies Fun league softball game. Ethel Gilmore, blonde pitcher and catcher, suffered a brain concussion in a collision Monday with shortstop Christina Davis, Blacklick, when they tried to snare the ball. Both were knocked unconscious. It was only a practice game.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

IDLE HOURS

MY FRIEND George Tingley, who has a lovely home across Grank Lake from Weskawaenak, here in Nova Scotia, has a sundial at the edge of his lawn which says that it records only "the Sunny Hours." Well, I have a rustic Sun porch outside my bedroom, facing East so as to get the full benefit of the early Sun, thus to bathe in its golden rays.

This porch, however, is where I have recorded my Idle Hours. Here I relax, read a little, think out these talks — and feed the wild squirrels. And I learn lessons from these scampering busy-bodies. They are selfish. They want something to eat all the time. And each squirrel doesn't want his companions to have what he comes to get! Each one is, at first, suspicious — but when he learns that you are his friend and have something for him, his fear vanishes. He comes and takes the peanuts from your hand.

They are friendly, too, these small roamers of the forest. And they are frugal. Give them a peanut that is shelled and they will eat it on the spot right in front of you, standing on their tiny hind legs and cyeing you every moment — but apparently superlatively happy. But give them a sound peanut and they run away to save it for a rainy day, or perhaps a hungry day. All wild animals become friendly in quick order when they become convinced that you mean them no harm. Before the Summer is over I have these little rascals meeting me at the door of my Lodge, jumping upon me, searching for the peanut pocket!

I believe that everyone should set apart a portion of his or her day for his or her Idle Hours. Hours in which to relax, think things over, meditate, and rest tired nerves. These Idle Hours, if intelligently used, are good medicine to the soul as well as to the body.

Sitting at my writing desk, overlooking the lake and with the pines, hemlocks and white birches, thick about my Lodge, I have an opportunity to study many birds, too. Today there were several in the wild cherry tree in front of my work corner. Many Robins and one beautiful bird with a black face, like a mask, and a light yellow throat. Perhaps it was the Maryland Yellowthroat.

You see, during Idle Hours, you can learn things. They are not lost hours. In fact they may become our best creative hours, hours in which to rest and grow.

YESTERDAY: Locke invites

Cecily to a picnic supper on the beach, next Sunday. Still puzzled about him, but excited, she accepts.

Chapter 16

Preparations

Cecily didn't want to think of the problem of Philip. She wanted to think of Locke.

She was going to see him on Sunday!

The room felt hot, stuffy to her. She didn't want to make the effort necessary to talk to him. She didn't want to play bridge.

She wanted to be alone.

She had another problem. She had accepted Locke's invitation to a hike on Sunday. But now that she had accepted it, she hadn't the least idea of how she was going to manage.

She couldn't very well say, "By the way, I have a date on Sunday with a nice young man. I'll be gone most of the afternoon and evening."

Oh, no, you can't do that when you're supposed to be engaged to another man who is a house-guest.

You could, of course, tell a lie. Say that you had to do something for Laura. But you couldn't do it if you were Cecily Stuart. You might be able to tell one very white little lie about being engaged to someone you didn't know. But that didn't mean that you were a habitual liar.

Nevertheless you meant to keep that Sunday date.

If only you could think of a way—

"Cecily, have you heard about the dinner-party?" Helene Fernandez broke in on Cecily's thoughts.

"No, what dinner-party?"

"We're all invited to Mrs. Brewster's who is giving it a week from Thursday. Manuel and I were planning to return to New York before then but Olivia insists that we stay."

"But I thought Mrs. Brewster never gives parties!"

Olivia said, "Only for state occasions, Cecily. This will be one and I think Helene ought to stay to see it. Not even in Newport is a summer dinner arranged with such grandeur. There will be at least seven courses and the gold plate service."

"What is the occasion?"

"Sir Hubert and Lady Rathbone are to be her house guests and she is dining them on that occasion. We will be six from Dorelia. Helene and Manuel, Philip and yourself. Armando"—Armando was Olivia's accompanist—"and myself."

Helene sighed, "Dress, I suppose?"

"Yes, indeed. As formally as your wardrobe permits."

"Will Philip still be here?" Cecily inquired sweetly. And pointedly.

"Of course, he will," Olivia said at once.

Philip, looking frightfully pleased, rose at once and took one of Olivia's hands in his. "Dear lady, you know that I want to stay but I feel that I've overstayed now. You've been so kind, I find it hard to resist your invitation."

"Don't talk nonsense, Philip. We want you to stay with us as long as you can. You're an ideal guest. I'd miss you if you were to leave us. And so would Cecily. Wouldn't you, dear?"

Cecily smiled weakly.

Didn't the man have any decency? Didn't he have any duty to do?

Going Away

She would have very much enjoyed handing him his hat and saying goodbye forever.

"Then I shall surely return," Philip was saying.

"Are you going away again?" Cecily's question was hopefully put. And not at all in the manner to be expected of a lovely girl whose fiancé was about to leave her.

"Yes," Olivia answered for him, "he's got to go to New York. Poor darling, and it's so dreadfully hot there. Gloria writes that she is simply languishing at Southampton."

"When are you going?" Cecily asked, trying to hide her eagerness.

"I'm afraid I'll have to leave on the morning train, my love. I've got to see my publishers Saturday, about by new book."

"Saturday? I thought publishing houses were closed on Saturday?"

"My little goose! Publishers do not have office hours when they have business to talk over with authors."

"Not important authors," Helene contributed.

Cecily had her doubts about Philip's importance but she was content to let it go. Philip was going away. It was enough for her that she was to be free over the weekend. There was no longer any need for her to worry about managing to get away on Sunday.

Saturday she scanned the heavens anxiously. It was a cloudless day and at night the stars came out. "Please don't let it rain tomorrow," she prayed that night.

"Cecily, we're driving to Kennebunkport for some golf today," Manuel said to her the next morning. "We're dining with the Gerhards at their place. Want to come along?"

"No thank you," she said quickly. "I've some . . . some things to do today. Is Aunt Olivia going with you?"

"Certainly."

"Of course, I am," Olivia broke in. "I've got to keep up my exercise. I'm not going to be one of those heavy-waisted contraltos."

"You're slim as a girl," Cecily said affectionately.

She wanted to pay everyone compliments. She wanted everyone to feel as completely gay, as filled with a sense of well-being as she was. She wanted to sing and dance. She wanted to work off the gaiety of her spirits that had been rising since first she opened her eyes that morning and saw that the sun was high in the heavens.

She had been up and out of doors before eight. She had walked to the beach and said to the waves, "This is the day I'm going to see him."

She had returned to the house and eaten a great breakfast before the others were up. Now that it was but a little after nine, she felt she could not endure the next five hours.

"Meet me at three at the fork of the road," Locke had said.

What do you do for five long hours on Sunday?

You pick fresh flowers to fill the bowls in all the rooms. You try to read Saturday's newspapers. You pick up your knitting and discover that you can't count stitches. You dawdle over your lunch and find it has taken only a half-hour. You try to listen to the radio but your mood is not for Sunday afternoon programs. You empty the contents of your bureau drawers and put them back in order.

The One Person

Then suddenly you discover it is two o'clock and you've only got an hour in which to put on your tweed skirt, your bright blue sweater. You tie a kerchief over your tawny hair and see, for the first time, that your face seems pretty to you. Your eyes sparkle and your cheeks are pink. Perhaps that is because you've been bending over to tie the strings on your sturdy boots.

But you know that isn't true. You know it is because you are happy, you anticipate the thing you have been waiting for.

And what are you waiting for?

You're waiting to see the one person who makes you complete. You're a girl and he's a man and between you there is the age-old and to-be-forever-new bond of quickened liking that makes every other thing in the world seem to stand still.

It was Cecily's first experience.

The clock in the big hall was striking the half-hour after two when Cecily, with a twin cardigan thrown over her blue sweater, the sleeves knotted, came down the flight of stairs.

There was a stout stick in the umbrella rack. She took it out and set off in purposeful strides.

The wind in the trees, the murmur of the stout grass by the roadside, the crunch of pebbles beneath her boots fell on her ears with a pleasing newness. There was a new scent—the perfume of wild roses—that added to the mingled pine and saltwater-filled air. She wrinkled her nose with delicious enjoyment.

Main Street slept drowsily in the Sunday afternoon calm. Shuttered windows and closed doors faced her benignly. The clatter of horses' feet disturbed the calm and faded away. She met the inevitable two fifteen-year-old girls, arms about each other, strolling aimlessly. She waved her hand to old Mrs. Jamison, greedily watching what few passers-by enlivened her Sunday afternoon.

Then she was at the end of Main Street and striking off toward the road that led to the fork.

Locke was waiting for her. He sat by the roadside, lazily munching on a blade of grass. He looked as though he might have remained there forever, rapt in his contemplation of the sky.

Cecily came up behind him. "Boo! You pretty creature! Did you remember to bring the steak?"

He got to his feet at once. "Stout fellow!" he said. "Right on time! I knew you were a girl in a million. Even if your interest seems to be in food rather than in me."

There was a knapsack on the grass, which he picked up and slung over his leather-jacketed shoulder. "The steak's in here," he said.

"And the potatoes?" she persisted. "Woman, don't you ever think of anything but food? The potatoes are at the beach. I sent them out by special messenger."

"You're very efficient," she said, and matched her stride to his.

The road was a brown and gray tweed. The fields were green and yellow silk patterned with the pale pink of wild roses, with the purple of thistles that grew by the side of the road. It was a changeable silk that moved with dappled sunlight in the soft summer breeze.

Fire Razes Barn Three Days After It Is Completed

Fire of undetermined origin Monday afternoon destroyed a barn on the farm of Col. Raymond A. Brown, half a mile south of the state industrial school at White Hill only three days after carpenters had finished the building. Loss was estimated at $10,000, partially covered by insurance.

Two painters working on the structure discovered the fire and yelled to the tenant farmer. With the aid of a farm hand, he backed a team and wagon-load of straw from the structure which was hopelessly ablaze before the first of six fire companies to respond reached the scene. No livestock or implements were destroyed.

Colonel Brown, a member of the staff of the 20th Division, National Guard, was notified of the loss at Manassas, Virginia, where he is in camp. Mrs. Brown was at the farm.

The flames were discovered when the painters, working on the roof, smelled smoke. One descended to investigate and found a straw stack, built partially beneath the barn's undershot, ablaze. He warned his companion who descended, and in a few moments, the entire structure was in flames, according to Curt Hocker, the tenant farmer.

THEY'RE FLYING MODEL SEAPLANES, NOW

Miami, Fla. (AP.)—Sea gulls these days share the air and water with seaplanes only a little larger than themselves.

Model airplanes builders here, not content with sending their miniature machines aloft from airport runways, have equipped them with pontoons and fly them from Biscayne Bay.

They learned from experience that the quiet waters of early morning are the best. Each Sunday at 6 a. m., weather permitting, they try out their wings.

Tiny gasoline engines propel the models to perfect takeoffs. If all goes well, the planes circle upward until motors sputter and die, then glide to perfect landings.

Sometimes a landing isn't so graceful and the crash boat hurries to the rescue.

THERE'LL BE NO DEBATE ON THIS QUESTION

Richmond, Va. (AP.)—The Virginia senate will have no difficulty choosing its orator for Robert E. Lee's birthday, January 19, Senator Henry T. Wickman of Hanover, president pro-tem of the body, and a personal friend of General Lee, is the standing choice. The senator will celebrate his 90th birthday December 17, three weeks before the legislative meets.

FALSE ALARM

Baxter Springs, Kas. (AP.)—Reports of an airplane crash sent most of the town's residents on a search of the countryside for the wreckage. It turned out, however, that it merely was a motor-powered model plane, whose owner asked the sheriff's office to help find it.

Social Security Act
Changes Are Explained
Washington, Aug. 8 (AP).—In one of its last acts, congress broadened the social security program. Here are some questions-and-answers regarding the old age insurance phase of the program as it will be revised when President Roosevelt signs the new rules into law:
Q—I am an employed worker. Do the new amendments change the deductions from my pay for old age insurance?
A.—Both your payments and your employer's will continue at the present rate until January 1, 1943. Under the old law both payments would have increased from the present 1 per cent each to 1½ per cent on next January. The new rules provide for increasing the payments to 2 per cent on January 1, 1943, to 2½ per cent on January 1, 1946, and to 3 per cent on January 1, 1949. Three per cent is the ceiling for these payments, and this "tax" applies only to the first $3,000 of wages a year.
Q.—Do the amendments change the benefits I will receive upon reaching age 65?
A.—Your benefits are changed. For example, a confirmed bachelor who started payments toward old age insurance at 35 and whose average salary over the 30-year period between ages 35 and 65 was $150 a month, would get a monthly benefit of $39 on reaching 65, as compared with $55.75 under the old law. However, if you were married and your wife also was 65, your benefit would be $58.50 under the new plan.
An older man would be benefited. Take a man who was 55 when old age collections started and whose salary from then until age 65 averaged $150. If single, his benefit would be increased from the present $27.50 to $33 monthly; if married to a woman also 65, it would be $49.50.
15th Boyd Reunion
Held at Taneytown
The fifteenth annual Boyd reunion was held Sunday at Big Pipe Creek park, Taneytown, Maryland, with approximately 150 persons present. The program consisted of guitar selections by John Hartman; prayer by the Rev. Guy Brady, Taneytown; reading entitled "Bust" by Mrs. Clara Rupp, New Windsor; address on the subject, "Family Reunions" by the Rev. Mr. Brady; accordion selection by Betty Rupp, New Windsor, and guitar selections by John Hartman.
All officers were re-elected as follows: President, Lewis Boyd, Taneytown; vice president, J. Russell Boyd, Hanover R. D.; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Paul W. PREACHES ON TEMPTATIONS
The Rev. David Wright Boyd, pastor of the Gettysburg A.M.E. Zion church, delivered the sermon at the community vesper service on the Gettysburg college campus Sunday evening.
His text was found in St. Matthew's fourth chapter and fourth verse: "But He answered and said, 'It is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.'" The text was taken from that part of the Bible that explains the temptation of Jesus in the wilderness.
In opening his sermon, the Rev. Mr. Boyd said that Jesus realized that it was His mission to save mankind and in order to do this it was necessary for Him to retire to a secluded place where He could plan His ministry.
While He was communing, the temptations were hurled at Him, but Jesus understood that He was to use His gifts for all of mankind and not only to please the whims of His temptor, said the local minister.
One of the lessons for the world today from the temptations in the wilderness lies in the fact that while material things—such as power, fame, social prestige and money—have their place in the world, they are worth nothing if man does not live by "every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God," concluded the Rev. Mr. Boyd.
During the evening service the chorus from the A.M.E. Zion church sang two selections under the leadership of Lewis Myers.

IT SEEMS THIS MAN HAD SOME COMPLAINTS
Miami, Fla. (AP)—One guess whom this apartment-house owner was talking to:
Trains, he complained, rumbled nearby at all hours, shaking the building and cracking the walls. A mattress factory next door sent dust into all 10 apartments in the building. Power saws at a stone-processing plant nearby went "whee" all day long. A used car lot on the opposite corner kept a loud-speaker blaring continuously.
Yes, he was talking to the tax board, trying to get his assessment reduced.

Fatally Hurt as Cycle Hits Tree
Chambersburg, Aug. 8.—Franklin County Coroner A. W. Thrush said Monday there will not be an inquest into the death of Ernest Jones, Jr., 20, of Fayetteville R. 1, who was fatally hurt last Saturday afternoon when the motorcycle he was riding alone crashed into two trees along route 997 at what is known as the Three-Cornered Woods, a half-mile southeast of Scotland.
Jones, an employe of a sand mind near Fayetteville, died Saturday night in the Chambersburg hospital, four hours after the accident. Rendered senseless in the crash, he died without regaining consciousness. Doctor Thrush said the youth had a fracture at the base of the skull, four fractured ribs in the vicinity of the heart, and a fracture of the right leg.
Funeral services were held today. Surviving are Jones' wife, a son, Leslie; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest R. Jones, and two brothers, Morris and Preston Jones, all of Fayetteville R. 1.
State Motor Policeman W. G. Troy reported the motorcycle, headed toward Scotland, ran off the right side of the road in negotiating a left turn. The right footrest of the cycle struck a tree three feet off the road and then collided with a second tree.

BRIGHT LIGHTS CURE HEADACHES
Columbia, Mo. (AP)—Rural electrification has cured Missouri farmers of such things as headaches and indigestion, says K. B. Huff of the University of Missouri agricultural engineering department.
"Lighting definitely affects human efficiency, resources and behavior," he says.
"Many cases of headaches and indigestion are caused by eyestrain due to inadequate and improper lighting."
